NUMBER: 03-06-17

YOUNGSTOWN AIR RESERVE STATION, OHIO – Fourteen more Air Force reservists assigned to the 910th Security Forces Squadron are expected to return to their home unit, Youngstown Air Reserve Station, tomorrow evening at approximately 9:30 p.m.

A 910th Airlift Wing C-130 will arrive here with the reservists who have been activated since November 2001 and have been deployed to Prince Sultan Air Base, Saudi Arabia, since mid-December 2002. After this group returns home, only one reservist from the 910th Security Forces Squadron will remain deployed.

Altogether, the 910th Airlift Wing will still have approximately 270 Air Force reservists deployed to locations throughout the world after this group returns tomorrow.

The 910th Security Forces Squadron provides force protection for Youngstown's C-130 aircraft and personnel assigned to the 910th Airlift Wing. Additionally, the squadron functions similar to a municipal police department complete with law enforcement road patrols, criminal investigations, and close in security/resource protection. Their global mission also includes combat arms training, information and personnel security. To complete their assigned mission, the squadron works closely with local, county and state police agencies while simultaneously maintaining Youngstown's deployable Air Base Defense (ABD) capability.
